NEBRASKA ENVIRONMENTAL TRUST

Preserving Natural Nebraska™

The Nebraska Environmental Trust was established in 1992 to conserve, enhance and restore the natural environments of Nebraska. It was created on the conviction that a prosperous future is dependent upon a sound natural environment and that Nebraskans could collectively achieve real progress on real environmental issues if seed money were provided.

Conservation and education are both highlighted in a current project funded by the Nebraska Environmental Trust using Lottery proceeds.

For more than 40 years, the Iain Nicolson Audubon Center at Rowe Sanctuary in Gibbon has protected habitat along the Platte River for the benefit of migratory birds in the Central Flyway. While their mission is to conserve a globally important bird resource, the Center's unique outdoor, experienced-based education is the heart of what they do.

With funding and support from the Trust and other conservation partners, Rowe Sanctuary is improving habitat for Sandhill cranes and other wildlife on a recent expansion at the core of the contiguous, protected habitat complex. The project centers on the restoration of upland prairie and wet meadow habitat, increasing native plant diversity, and will include reducing habitat fragmentation and removing hazards to at-risk species. On-the-ground work will include reseeding, tree removal, and the development of grazing management infrastructure. One unique aspect of the project is the removal of nearly one mile of aboveground power line bisecting the grasslands. The line represents a significant threat to birds due to its proximity to one of the largest crane roosts in the world.

Perhaps the most exciting piece to the project is a new opportunity for outreach and education related to this and other work being completed at the Sanctuary. A new vehicle pull-out will be constructed where visitors can learn more about the species and habitats that Rowe Sanctuary protects and take in views of one of the largest, intact wet meadows remaining in the Platte River valley and a significant day time feeding and loafing location for migrating Sandhill Cranes.

This project represents early steps toward the realization of a new, long-term vision of a biologically rich and diverse Platte River, buoyed by the work and resources at Rowe Sanctuary, where people locally and globally can connect with nature and the power to protect it.

WINNING WAYS

MORE TRUCKS, MORE EXCITEMENT

Truck$ & Buck$ has had an incredibly big year. It all began when the number of trucks players could win instantly was increased from three trucks to five. As of April 27, three trucks have been won. Now, two more trucks have been added to the mix, which means there are still four trucks up for grabs in the instant win game.

The first truck was won by Helen Murray of Oakland. Murray purchased her winning Truck$ & Buck$ ticket at Kwik Shop, 1615 North Bell Street in Fremont. She bought the Truck$ & Buck$ ticket on a whim and didn't realize what she had after she scratched the ticket. "I thought it wasn't a winner, so I had to go back inside the store and check," she said. "It's just wonderful to win. I never planned on winning a big one. I'd be happy if I won $100."

Our second Truck$ & Buck$ winner was Rick Torres of Eagle. Torres purchased his winning ticket at U-Stop, 3280 Superior Street in Lincoln. The day of Rick's truck presentation was unseasonably warm but a great day for a truck giveaway. People came from around Lincoln to try their hands at the prize cube setup in the parking lot and enter for a chance to win $100 in Truck$ & Buck$ tickets. When Rick Torres took the keys to his new truck, the excitement was nearly contagious. "You know who is going to throw a fit?" he said. "My dog. She's going to be sitting right up next to me in the front seat."

The third truck winner was surprisingly found in Fremont once again. This time the winning ticket was sold at Hy-Vee Gas, 828 East 23rd Street.

The excitement of Truck$ & Buck$ having five trucks available to win has sent the game into a surge of popularity. Sales have increased as a result, which guided the notion to extend the print run for the game and offer the additional two trucks. Players will also have the chance to win two more $1,000 gift cards for ethanol-enriched fuel and over $660,000 in additional cash prizes. We like meeting winners and getting to meet seven new truck owners this year is going to be fantastic.
